15 CASES LISTED FOR COMING TERM

Quarter Sessions' Docket is Small, With Few Major Actions.

TERM BEGINS MONDAY

Eighteen Defendants Involved in Cases to be Presented by New County Officials; List is Given.

Fifteen criminal actions, involving eighteen alleged violators of laws, are listed for trial at the regular quarterly term of the court of quarter sessions which begins next Monday morning.

One defendant is charged with arson and three others with violation of the prohibition laws. The others are accused of various minor offenses, and from all indications trials in the quarter session division of the January term will be few and short, since most of the defendants are expected to enter pleas of guilty, thereby throwing themselves entirely upon the mercy of the court.

Sixteen cases involving infractions of the criminal laws are on the continued list for the coming term, but none of them is expected to come to trial.

Seven cases are listed for trial at next week's term in the court of common pleas, but only two of them are likely to be prosecuted.

The coming term of court will be the first at which the new county officials, who went into office on January 7, will serve. The January term is scheduled to last two weeks, but it is believed all of the trials will be cleaned up during the first week.

Following is the list of defendants in the quarter sessions division and the offense with which each is charged:

William E. Carr, statutory offense; William Carr, adultery; James Laughman, statutory offense; Leo Graft, statutory offense; Amos R. Wilkerson, statutory offense; Summerfield Stilled, assault and battery; Harry E. Rebert, fraudulent conversion of property; Eugene Bowden, arson; Harry Plank, non-support; Dewey Sanders, statutory offense; Charles Harr, violating prohibition law; John Sell, Jr., operating motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor; Tim Noel, Ted Kuhn and Charles Hawn, representing and assuming to be State policemen; George Brown and Jesse Roy Coghill, violation of prohibition laws, and M. F. Spangler, assault and battery.

NO WORK, NO FOOD GETS PATHS CLEANED

Four Young Men Are Breakfasted After Clearing Away Snowfall.

No work, no food is the motto by which Harry Stauffer, retiring steward at the county home, conducts affairs there.

This morning four young men entered the grounds and sought the steward, asking that they be given breakfast.

"All right, boys," Mr. Stauffer told them, "but I have snow shovels that will just fit your hands, and you may as well have good appetites for breakfast. Go to it."

So the four young men "went to it" and cleaned Thursday night's snowfall from all the walks and paths around the county home buildings.

And after completing their task, they were brought in and Steward Stauffer says they "went to it" again when a hot appetizing meal was before them.

C. Arthur Griest Re-elected To Head Horticulturalists

Farmers and Hunters Discuss Damage to Orchards and Crops by Deer and Other Game in the South Mountain; Make Four Recommendations to Protect Farmers.

C. Arthur Griest, of Guernsey, was re-elected president of the State Horticultural Association of Pennsylvania, meeting in connection with the eighth annual State Farm Products Show in Harrisburg this week. Other officers re-elected for the ensuing year are:

H. C. Brinton, Hanover, first vice president; S. R. Huey New Castle, second vice president; Dr. S. W. Fletcher, State College, secretary; Edwin W. Thomas, King of Prussia, treasurer.

Differences between fruit growers and farmers on one side and sportsmen on the other regarding the damage to crops caused by deer and other game were explained to each other at a meeting of the Horticultural Association at the Coliseum, Harrisburg.

John R. Runk, who says he is a sufferer from the ravages of deer in the South Mountains to the extent of $20,000, led the discussion of the farmers' viewpoint and was joined by other agriculturists whose farms border the South Mountains.

Mr. Runk said he appreciates the viewpoint of the sportsman in gunning for game, and would like to see game plentiful, but that it is not fair to the farmer to have his crops damaged by the game. Deer especially, he said, have been doing much damage nipping terminal buds on twigs and stripping bark from fruit trees as well as damaging young grain. If the game is to be kept for the benefit of the sportsman, he said, it is only fair that the sportsman should protect the farmer's crops from destruction or reimburse the farmer if they are destroyed.

During the last eleven years, he himself has lost about $22,000 in orchards, due to damage by deer he said. Because of the prevalence of deer in the mountains of Huntingdon county, the county is losing its standing in orchard cultivation, he added, and no new orchards are being added.

He commended the action of the Legislature in having the State assume a portion of this responsibility by cooperating with the fruit grower in erecting fences to protect orchards and crops.

Value Of Game

The value of game as food and for welfare and recreational purposes was explained by Seth E. Gordon, secretary of the State Game Commission, who talked from the viewpoint of the sportsman.

"It has always been the policy of the Game Commission to refrain from increasing game in any section to a point where material depredations to cultivated fruit trees or crops would result," he said. He explained the plans of the Commission to have deer trapped in the South Mountain section to thin it out where too plentiful without destroying the animals. Restocking has not been practiced in sections where it is found that game abounds of its own accord, to prevent damage, he added.

Puts Responsibility On State

The State should assume responsibility for damage done by wild life it propagates and protects, Deputy Secretary of Agriculture John M. McKee said, especially if the State is negligent in preventing the protected game from damaging private property. The drift of feeling is in that direction, he said, pointing to the bills of the last Legislature to pay damage done by bear to bees and honey up to $6,000, and to permit the State to participate on a 50-50 basis in building protecting fences.

Much Damage In Adams

The damage has been widespread, affecting most sections of the State he said, quoting replies to questionnaires sent to county agents, crop reporters, as well as complaints sent to the department and results of investigations. Only fifteen counties reported no damage. The twelve counties reporting the most widespread damage by deer, elk, bear and rabbits, he added, are Adams, Blair, Cameron, Cumberland, Clarion, Forest, Franklin, Huntingdon, McKean, Monroe, Potter and Sullivan. Of the 780 crop reporters in the townships of the State, twenty per cent. reported damage is increasing, five per cent. (Continued on Fifth Page)

ANOTHER NATIVE SON GAINS HONOR IN WORLD'S EYES

Homer Rebert, Littlestown, Makes Important Discovery Among Ruins of Ancient Roman Forum While Studying Abroad.

Adams county, during its process of gaining honor through the achievements of its native born sons who bring distinction upon themselves, has been apprised of the latest deed to bring one of its residents into the limelight; this time it is in the realm of archeology.

Homer F. Rebert, son of Mrs. Laura Rebert, of Littlestown, who is now a student in the American Academy at Rome, is having an interesting experience in exploring the ruins of the ancient Forum, the scene of many discussions at the height of the Roman Empire, some of which changed the history of the world.

Mr. Rebert, according to the recent report, has just made the discovery of a previously unknown "separate structure" in the ancient Forum, a find which is being heralded far and wide by students of Roman history. The following article concerning Mr. Rebert was published in the Lancaster New Era of January 16:

When Homer F. Rebert sat up nights 16 years ago at Franklin and Marshall Academy to work out line after line of Cicero's Fourth Oration against Catiline, he little dreamed that sometime he himself would make discoveries and investigations at the very spot where the Latin Orator's famous address was given. But he worked hard and graduated from the Academy as Head of the School in 1908, completing his course at F. and M. College in 1912.

He had always been interested in music, and took up the study of the pipe organ, becoming a Fellow of the American Guild of Organists. After that he entered the Cornell Graduate School to specialize in the classics. Today he is with the American Academy at Rome, and according to a letter just received by Dr. E. M. Hartman, principal of F. and M. Academy, recently made the discovery of a previously unknown "separate structure" in the ancient Forum, and last spring collaborated with an architect in the reconstruction of the Temple of Concord, where Cicero's Fourth Oration was delivered.

Mr. Rebert entered the Academy at Rome through one of the two announced (Continued on Sixth Page)

POLICE EXPECT TO ARREST H. I. SWAIN

Has Not Yet Secured Bail: George Toddes Out on Bond.

The arrest of H. I. Swain, West Breckenridge street, by State Police was expected to take place today. Swain's residence was one of the places visited by State, county and borough police when they conducted a sweeping raid here last Saturday afternoon. A quantity of moonshine liquor was found on Swain's premises, according to the police, who hold a warrant for his arrest.

George Toddes, whose home on West Breckenridge street was also entered in the raid, has given himself up to the police and entered bail of $1,000, as did Joseph "Chief" Jones, colored, William Shields, Sr., and Joseph Galbraith, who were also caught in the raid.

Swain, according to the police, is trying to get bail, but inquiry at the office of Justice of the Peace J. L. Hill this morning revealed that as yet he has been unsuccessful in his efforts.

Last Saturday's raids were the most extensive ever conducted in Gettysburg and a large quantity of moonshine liquor, together with a still, fell into the hands of the authorities. Three men were arrested at the time and warrants were held for the arrest of two others, Swain and Toddes.

According to the authorities, the raid made Gettysburg much drier than it ever was since prohibition has come into effect. The police say that by the raid they struck at the heart of the bootleg ring in Gettysburg.

PLAN MELLON TAX BILL SUBSTITUTE

Republican Members of House Would Draft Measure of Their Own.

MELLON RAPS COUZENS

In Reply to Senator's Challenge, Secretary Questions Investments of Republican From Michigan.

(By Associated Press)

Washington, Jan. 25.—While Republican House members were considering a proposal today to draft a tax bill of their own, using the Mellon plan as a basis, Secretary Mellon renewed his defense of his proposals in another open letter to Senator Couzens, Republican, of Michigan.

In his last letter to the secretary, the Michigan Senator had challenged Mr. Mellon to tell the country what effect the Mellon plan would have on his own personal taxes. The secretary's reply did not mention that subject, however, but instead he again inquired whether the present high surtax rate had not impelled Mr. Couzens to invest a large part of his wealth in tax-exempt securities.

Mr. Mellon also disregarded Mr. Couzens' proposal for a debate on the Mellon tax plan.

A coverlet of rain, freezing as it struck, falling upon a blanket of snow several inches deep, was experienced in Gettysburg and Adams county on Thursday evening. The precipitation followed in the wake of a rising thermometer and a strong easterly wind. This morning still warmer weather caused much of the snow to melt, making slush out of most of the precipitation.

Chief of Police A. V. Weikert this morning broadcast his usual warning to property owners in Gettysburg to have their pavements cleared of the slush before evening. The borough had its force of men out early removing snow from crossings and opening sewers for the water to run away.

ALL ACQUITTED IN U. S. HARNESS CASE

Judge Instructs Jury to Free Five Remaining Defendants.

Parkersburg, W. Va., Jan. 25.—Declaring the Government had failed to present evidence of any conspiracy to defraud the United States and exonerating two of the Government's witnesses, Capt. George Bosson and Allen Hume, for discrepancies in their testimony, Federal Judge Lawrence Groher Thursday night instructed the jury to return a verdict of not guilty against five former Government officials who have been on trial here since January 14. The case grew out of the sale of surplus war materials by the harness company.

The judge declared he had been on the verge of ending the trial last Saturday upon completion of the Government's case, but that he wished to have cleared up certain evidence the Government had presented. This the defense did this week. At that time two of the seven defendants, Capt. Earl R. Estes, of Atlanta, sales manager of the United States Harness Company, and John C. Skinner, of Hamilton Ohio, former agricultural agent of the United States, were acquitted by instruction of the court.

Five Acquitted Men

The remaining defendants, whom the court ordered acquitted Thursday, were Major Joseph C. Byron, of Hagerstown; Col. George W. Goetz, of Charles Town, W. Va.; Major Henry W. Benke, of Chicago, formerly of Hagerstown, and Capt. Azel F. Cochran, of Hagerstown, all officials of the harness company and also former officials of the Government during the war, and Ernest C. Morse, of Cincinnati, former director of sales of the surplus property division of the War Department.

"I have concluded that if a jury should find a verdict of guilty I would have to set it aside," Judge Groher said. "Not even the affirmative evidence in the case indicated that the defendants were guilty of any misconduct."

Charges Graham With Politics

Thursday night, upon being acquitted, Major Joseph Byron, of Hagerstown, in a statement charged Representative William Graham, of Illinois, with having obtained the indictments to further his own political ends. Representative Graham was chairman of the House committee that investigated war contracts.

The charge upon which the seven men were being tried grew out of the contract under which the United States Harness Company, of Ransom, W. Va., agreed to dispose of surplus war harness. The Government gave the contract in September, 1920, and it continued in effect for almost a year, when the late President Harding, upon recommendations of the Department of Justice, declared it void.

ANDERSON LOANED MONEY TO LEAGUE

Tells Tale of Man Who Gave Him $20,000 In A Year.

New York, Jan. 25.—Under cross-examination Thursday in his trial for third-degree forgery, William H. Anderson, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, told a strange tale of a mysterious benefactor known as "John T. King," who in the period of a year gave him "out of the goodness of his heart" more than $20,000, which Anderson later loaned to the league.

"King" came to him in 1912 in his Anti-Saloon League offices in Baltimore, Anderson said, called him a "darn fool" for working for a small salary, and said he admired him a whole lot. Then, at intervals, Anderson testified, the man brought checks, and the whole at the end of the year amounted to more than $20,000.

"And that's where I got enough money to loan the league in New York," answered Anderson, reluctantly.

Anderson said he hadn't seen "King" since that time. An attempt was made by the prosecutor and Justice Tompkins to learn why and for what service the money had been given, but they failed, after a long grilling, and court was adjourned until today. Assistant District Attorney Pecora said he had several more hours of cross-examination.

Tells of "Split" Offer

Contradicting the testimony given by O. B. Phillips, that he (Anderson) declared "no man in my employ can make more money than I do," the league head testified that in June, 1919, Phillips said to him:

"I do not think it fair for me to make more money than you do," and suggested they split all the commissions over $10,000.

Anderson said he agreed to this proposition later and that Phillips since had split.

Anderson denied that he had placed Phillips on a commission basis in order to "fool the Rockefeller," who were then large contributors to the league funds.

Since he took charge of the New York League, January 1, 1914, Anderson declared, more than $2,000,000 had been collected and disbursed by the organization.

Under cross-examination Mr. Anderson revealed that while Phillips was collector John D. Rockefeller and his contributed approximately $75,000 a year to the league.

U. S. STARTS AID FOR FARM BANKS

Conditions in South Dakota Are Declared Sound by Officials.

BIG CROP TO BE MARKETED

Government Pledges Itself to Continue to Assist in Financial Stringency in That State.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Jan. 25.—An agency of the war finance corporation began operations in Sioux Falls Thursday as part of the plan of national and state officials, to alleviate the financial situation resulting from the recent closing of a number of banks in South Dakota.

Plans went forward Thursday under the guidance of John Hinz, states superintendent of banks, to bring about a reorganization of Sioux Falls Trust and Savings Bank, whose affairs was taken over last week by the state bank guaranty commission. It has the largest deposits of any bank in the state.

Bank examiners are continuing their investigation of the International State Bank and the Sioux Falls National Bank, the other two local banks recently closed, and directors of the two institutions declared they were working on general plans of reorganization.

Governor McMaster who conferred Wednesday with Mr. Myers and local banking officials expressed confidence Thursday that improvement in the situation would result from the decision of the War Finance Corporation to establish an agency in Sioux Falls.

"The establishment of this agency, backed by unlimited resources, will bring assistance to the very thresholds of the banks needing help," he said to the Associated Press, "and much to the relief of the situation."

"Coupled with this is another and perhaps even more important factor in that South Dakota has hardly more than started to market the greatest crop in its history."

"Within the next sixty days or so, millions of dollars will pour into the agricultural coffer as this crop reaches market, and retain for South Dakota its standing as the leading state in point of per capital production wealth."

CONTINUED ASSISTANCE

BY GOVERNMENT PLEDGED

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 25.—The branch of the war finance corporation established at Sioux Falls, S. D., as an aid to the stringent financial situation in that state, will be a sub-agency of the Minneapolis agency, Eugene Meyer, Jr., managing director of the corporation, declared here Thursday.

Mr. Meyer arrived here Thursday from Sioux Falls, where he arranged Wednesday for the opening of the agency. He left for Washington later.

"We had intended to return directly to Washington from Sioux Falls," Mr. Meyer said, "but we determined that a subagency there in close contact with South Dakota banks would be most helpful, and the move necessarily involves some changes in the Minneapolis office."

"Conditions in South Dakota are fundamentally sound," Mr. Meyer said, "and warrant absolute confidence in the future. A large amount of cattle, pigs and corn is being marketed and will be marketed in the next sixty days. The war finance corporation in the past has made loans to 380 banks in South Dakota, of which 240 have repaid in full value, while the other banks have made material reductions in the amounts advanced to them. The corporation has shown its confidence in the state in the past and proposes to continue to do so in the future."

WILL NOT ACCEPT COMPROMISE PLAN

Mellon Refuses Modification, But Leaves Decision to Congress.

Washington, Jan. 25.—In the face of compromise proposals by house Republicans, Secretary Mellon informed callers Thursday that he saw no reason for a compromise on the treasury plan and that he could not withdraw from the position he had taken relative to reduction of the higher brackets of surtaxes.

The secretary feels, however, that it is a question entirely for congress to decide.

He saw Representative Watson, of Pennsylvania, Republican member of the ways and means committee, Thursday, but said the conference was not primarily on taxes, although he made known to Mr. Watson that his position was unchanged.

The Mellon plan for the first time was debated Thursday on the floor of both the senate and house.

Representative Garner, Democrat, of Texas, who is endeavoring to substitute a measure for the treasury bill, engaged in an exchange in the house with Representative Mills, a Republican member of the house ways and means committee, who made a forty-minute prepared speech for the Mellon plan.

In the senate the Garner plan was presented by Senator Jones, Democrat, of New Mexico, who furnished tables to show its effects upon various classes of taxpayers.

"The great secretary says the Garner plan is insincere," said Senator Jones, "apparently because of the importance given to small incomes. Mr. Mellon probably has so long dealt with large incomes that he cannot see the others."

Representative Mills declared the reduction of surtax was vital to prosperity of the nation and asserted the Democratic plan on surtaxes would limit tax reduction to the small income taxpayers at the expense of the entire population.

Trade relations with Russia were resumed by Great Britain in March, 1921, and the Moscow Government has negotiated trade agreements with other powers, notably Italy.

Mr. O'Grady is 57 years old and has served as president of the Trades Congress and as secretary of the National Federation of General Workers. He held a captaincy during the World War and was with British, Russian, French and American forces on various missions.

He visited Moscow in 1922 in connection with the trade-union famine relief movement.

Efforts At Settlement

Of Rail Strike Again Fail London, Jan. 25.—The proposed conference between the railway managers and the engineers for discussion of the issues involved in the present strike has fallen through, and J. Bromley, secretary of the Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen, announced Thursday afternoon that he "regretted" that the strike must continue.

In the South Wales district the lack of coal cars has thrown 100,000 miners out of work and tied up several iron and steel works, making 8,000 other persons idle, while in the Midlothian coal district 6,000 miners are involuntarily at leisure.

More Trains Are Moving The Trades-Union Congress is holding daily sessions, being ready to intervene should the disputants show any sign of coming together.

The country as a whole appears to be jogging along comfortably with the restricted schedule provided by the railways, augmented by highway transportation. "HUMAN SONG IS GREATEST"

Writer Declares That the Angels Pause to Listen to the Things Worth While.

I have a very great delight in writing. It is like going swimming at sunrise, or like picking up the main-sail bunt in a moonlighted horn gate, or like any number of things that make one's life a happy thing. I wish that I could write in such a way as to leave a blossom flowering when I sail to the last haven. One wants to do one's bit, doesn't one? asks Bill Adams.

Oh, yes. One wants to get to the very heart of no end of a hard fight and to hit fast, hard and true—going down with a light laugh if down one must go. And if victorious, lifting a fallen foe with the same laugh and the hand of friendship, eh? Isn't that so?

There really is nothing to beat a man's life, is there?

For instance—don't you suppose that when the old rusty-bowed clipper goes booming through the last sea, carrying the scarred souls of many a tough old mariner toward the wharf whose bollards are made of gold, don't you suppose now that the Great Superintendent of the Fleets will say to the angels:

"Cease your harping, boys—hold on, now steady all hands, a bit," and add, "Bunch, here they come—let's listen to their rousing chantey—that's real music, boys."

Don't you rather reckon that, all said and done, the song of a human man is, through all the long years, of greater worth than harping of myriads of angels, eh?—Adventure Magazine.

More baseballs were sold last year than ever before. The new lively ball is helping trade.

Murder Will Out

By MORRIS SCHULTZ

(© 1923, Western Newspaper Union.)

HENDERSON had resolved to kill Smith some day. He was in no particular hurry about it, because he had planned it all out, and it had become inevitable in his mind that Smith must die.

There were several things between the two men, but the principal one of them was that Henderson hated Smith. The two were farmers, and they had always been enemies.

Henderson was shrewd enough to know that however cleverly he concealed his tracks suspicion would fall on him. But he was willing to be suspected. The law requires proof, and so long as he could fall short of the ultimate of proof he did not care.

He chose a snowy, stormy night for the deed. The two houses were about a mile apart. A road ran past them. There was a multitude of tracks in the road, and it would be easy enough to slip into the house and kill Smith. The falling snow would quickly cover up his footprints.

Henderson took his ax and started. No one was on the road. The wind was almost a hurricane, and it blew furious blasts of sleet into Henderson's face.

But at last he saw the light of Smith's cottage. Smith had lived alone since his daughter had married and moved into town. Quietly Henderson crept to the window and looked in. But Smith was not inside the house. And then Henderson heard the sound of footsteps in the stable.

Smith kept two horses and a cow. Creeping softly to the building which housed all three, Henderson saw the faint outlines of Smith's figure. He was bending down beside the cow, which was uttering low, plaintive calls. No doubt she had taken sick.

Henderson raised his ax and brought it down with a fearful crash upon Smith's back. It sank right in, and he felt the bones sever.

Smith tumbled to the floor of the shed without uttering a sound. Only the cow continued to moo plaintively.

Henderson made his way back to the road and house. Arriving, he washed his ax, being careful to remove all fingerprints, and went to bed. That night he slept the sleep of the just.

He was up early next morning. The snow was still falling. There was no doubt that his tracks were completely covered. Everything was safe.

About nine o'clock there came a knock at the door. Henderson opened, to find the sheriff standing there.

"Come in," he said cheerily. "Just finished breakfast. A cup of coffee, sheriff?"

"The sheriff declined. 'There's been bad business up to Smith's place,' he said.

"So?"

"Yeah. Murder," answered the sheriff.

Henderson's start was admirably feigned. "Smith—murdered?" he gasped.

The sheriff did not reply directly. "I was wonderin' if you knew anything about it, Mr. Henderson," he answered.

"Are you accusing me of murdering Smith?" demanded Henderson in a tone of injured innocence.

"None—not yet. But there's a party seen some one slinking round the Henderson place with an ax last night. Lemme look at your ax, Mr. Henderson," he went on.

"You'll find it in the woodshed," answered Henderson with an indifferent shrug. "But if you mean to accuse me—"

The sheriff went out without making any reply. Presently he came back.

"This ax has been scoured," he said.

"And there's rust on the blade."

"Chopping in the snow," said Henderson, feeling as if a pit opened suddenly beneath him.

The sheriff put his hand on his shoulder. "It's no use, Henderson," he said. "We've got you dead to rights, so you'd better come through. You're under arrest for killing—"

"I swear I didn't," Henderson began to babble. "It's a lie, sheriff, and no man can prove it."

"For killing Smith's new-born calf," continued the sheriff. "And Smith's the evidence. He was watching you in the stable."

Beauty and Car Seats.

"There are many pretty girls in this country," remarked Bluebell, herself listed as no bad looker by competent judges.

"I own up to it," responded her chum, Ariadne.

"The musical shows team with them. The movies require them. You see them in stores, in offices—everywhere. Yes, this country is full of beautiful girls. But—"

"But what?"

"It would take Helen of Troy to get a seat on a street car now."—Atlanta Journal.

All That Was Necessary.

The young man was fondling her right hand.

"A nice diamond," he said, awkwardly. "Diamonds are beautiful stones, but on the other hand—"

"Oh, Jack," she murmured, "you make me so happy."

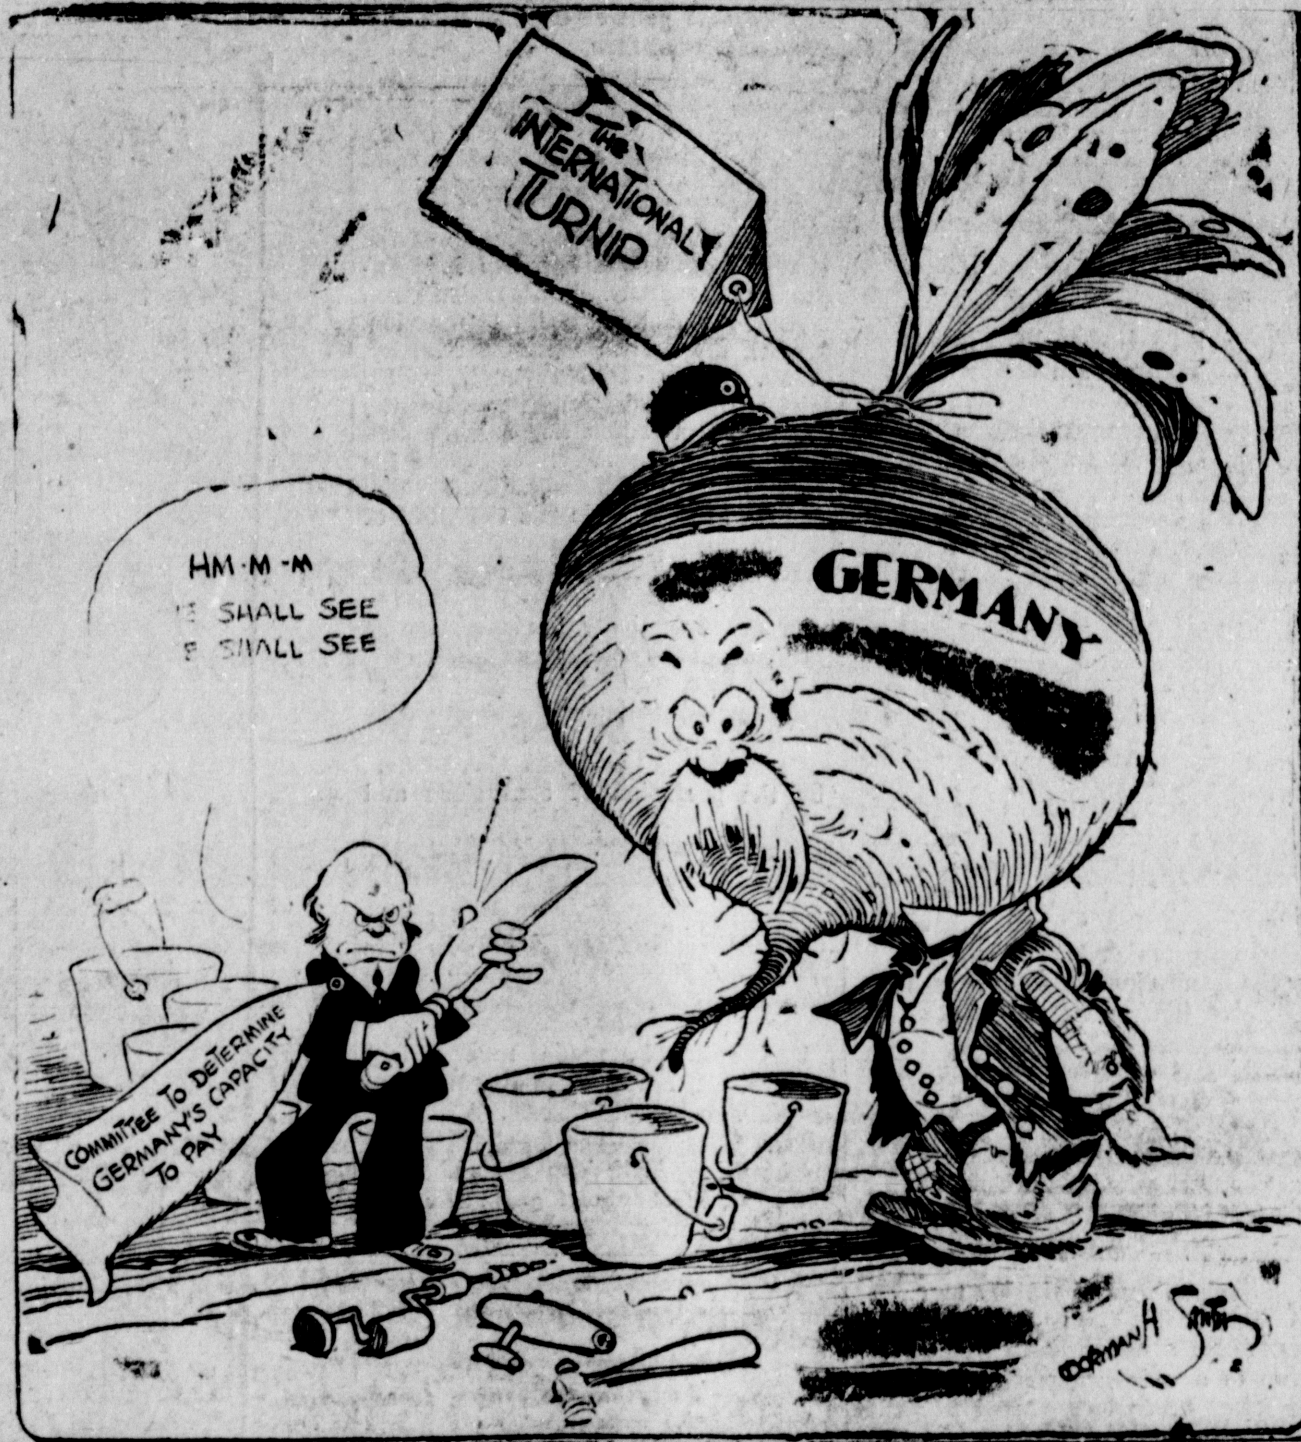

Between Girls.

Louise—Do you know, at the ball the other night Mr. Lovingham called me a dream?

Edda—Oh! Now I understand better what he meant when he told me he suffered so much from nightmares.

Last year 540 bank failures were reported. Besides this many children's banks failed Christmas.

She still leaned against the door, but her head was bent.

He was whistling and hammering at a long piece of iron. Joan came and stood beside him.

Suddenly he straightened up and held in the air a bar of metal, the shaped and white hot. Joan blinked. "That's our brand, girl," said Pierre. "Don't you forget it. When I've made my fortune there'll be stock all over the country marked with them two bars. That'll be famous—the Two-Bar brand. Don't you forget it, Joan." And he brought the white iron close so that she felt its heat on her face.

Joan went back to his horse. He was on it and off, galloping madly across the sagebrush flat. Pierre turned and walked into the house past Joan without a word.

MORE MEDDLING, MORE BUNGLING

Investigation into rents is another of the fads of congress. To make such an investigation congress must include the entire country. There are rent abuses, no doubt. There always will be. Rents are different in different places. They are determined by many different conditions. No general law could be passed that would apply to all cases and all circumstances.

What congress should do is to curtail expenses, take off the impediments it imposes upon business, stop reckless spending of money, get rid of many of the useless bureaus, quit tying the country up in meshes of red tape and give us some freedom. Then rents will take care of themselves.

Soon, if this thing keeps up, we shall have as many restrictions on us as are imposed by the complicated caste system that has made the East Indians, once perhaps a vigorous and intellectual people, mere automatons, dulled in mind and crushed in spirit, and without initiative.

Congress for some several decades has been meddling with everything under the sun. The result is that things grow steadily worse. This should be an example and a warning to keep regulation of everything out of the hands of the ignorant and leave it to those who are presumed to know something about their own business.

Curfew Law Works Well
WRIGHTSVILLE—When the final curfew bell sounded its warning at 9 o'clock Wednesday night not a child under 16 years of age, unaccompanied by a parent, could be seen on the streets, according to Chief of Police Thomas Harris. The bell first rang at 8:45 p. m. as a warning and at 9 as a final signal that all children be off the streets. The curfew law, which had not been enforced here for the past several years, was brought into action Wednesday evening on orders of Burgess W. W. Drenning, as his first step in a crusade for law enforcement. The Burgess appointed Chief Harris as curfew officer, who will be assisted by the ward constables. The ward constables, V. R. Wise, Joseph McClain and Charles Whitcomb, have been asked by the Burgess to see that no children under the age of 16 years are loafing in the pool rooms, and also see that no punchboards are in operation, as well as to enforce general obedience to all statutes.

The tables were attractively arranged by the committee in charge and the decorations were in the association's colors, blue and white. Mrs. Frank Phoebe was chairman of the committee in charge. Mrs. H. C. Brinton presided, in the absence of the president, Mrs. C. E. Moul. Devotions were in charge of Miss Bertha Zeller, and the minutes of the last annual meeting were read by the secretary, Miss Ruth Lucenbaugh. In the absence of the treasurer, Mrs. A. R. THE WHIP OF CARE

Oh, there are burdens to bear and the trials are many,
Butcher and baker and bread man must have their last penny—
Life's not all laughter and loving, and well do I know it.
Care leaves a welt on the flesh, be you merchant or poet;
Lawyer or doctor or tradesman, the great or the small of us,
Care has a whip in his hand and he lashes at all of us.

Oh, there are times when I groan and I feel my flesh stinging,
Times when there's too much of pain and not enough singing,
Times when men's greed seems to stifle me, times when my duty seems to be foolish and vain, robbing life of all beauty;
Then comes a boy to my knee with his eyes brightly flashing,
And I laugh in derision at care and the whip that he's lashing.

This I shall wrest from it all: their peace and their pride in me,
The faith and respect of my friends was read by Mrs. H. Shriver, and was audited by C. L. Myers. The general secretary's report, covering the work of the association for the last year, was given by Miss Laura M. Fullerton. The association is planning to have a membership drive.

Assemblyman Dubs Buried
PORTERS—The funeral of Daniel S. Dubs, Pennsylvania State assemblyman for two terms from 1891 to 1894, who died Sunday night, at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William Menges, was held from the house Wednesday morning. Following short services at the house at 9 a. m., further services were held in Dubs' Union church where burial took place in the adjoining cemetery. The services were conducted by Rev. E. M. Sando, pastor of the West Manheim Reformed church. The last rites of the Masonic order were also performed. Members of the Patmos lodge of Masons, Hanover, Herbert Stoner, George Adams, Elwood Van Fossen, Horace Thoman, John Wentz and a Mr. Bowman, acted as pallbearers. A delegation from the Hanover camp of the P. O. S. of A. also attended the funeral.

Legion To Buy Radio Set
DALLASTOWN—Dallastown post No. 605, American Legion, met Tuesday night with Post Commander Dr. C. W. Frey presiding. After a lengthy discussion it was unanimously decided to purchase a radio set and have it installed as soon as possible. The committee appointed to purchase the radio consists of Paul Dellinger, Gerha Sheaffer and Ernest Linbery. As soon as the radio is installed the committee will make arrangements to have a radio party. They decided to hold their meetings on the second and fourth Tuesday of each month. A committee was appointed for a membership drive. On this committee are William M. Koontz, Paul Flinchbaugh and Miles Peter. Paul Flinchbaugh was appointed to see after poppies for Memorial day.

who have glimpsed the inside of me;
The butcher and baker and bread man shall have what I owe them,
They shall be glad to have known me as I have been happy to know them.
For from the care of the world, from the burdens and stings of our duty,
Come the treasures of love and esteem, come honor and friendship and beauty.

Not without these is life good, and not without care can man gain them.
The garments of honor shall fade if the butcher and baker shall stain them.
With courage we purchase our friends, care sanctifies all that we cherish,
By faith and by strength we find peace, and without them we languish and perish;
By the burdens we bear and the hurts, by the conquests which run through life's story,
The thing we call manhood is made, and manhood's the giver of glory.

Slicker Works Old Woman
CHAMBERSBURG.—Fifteen dollars, which a Greencastle woman had given to a well-dressed, suave stranger after he had convinced her that the money was for her son, ill at a Pittsburgh hotel, were recovered by Police Chief Baumgardner, of Greencastle, with the arrest of the man at the Central Hotel, Waynesboro, on Monday. The man, who gave the name of Harry Adams, is held in the lockup at Greencastle for a hearing. Adams first appeared at the home of Mrs. Anna L. Hussong, of Greencastle, and said that her grandson, Guy Bock, was ill at the Fort Pitt Hotel, Pittsburgh. He was said to have been stricken with pneumonia and being without funds was subject to ejection from the hotel. Mrs. Hussong referred the man to her daughter, mother of the alleged sick man, who works at the Interwoven Knitting Mills at Greencastle. He repeated the story to the mother. She raised the $15, Adams said were needed for her son's relief, with difficulty. She offered to telegraph the money, but Adams was alleged to have said that he had advanced Bock $5 and had been entrusted with the duty of securing the money.

Sentence Check Passer
CHAMBERSBURG.—A young man who gave his name as "James Penrose," and Philadelphia as his residence, arrested several weeks ago on a charge of false pretense on oath of Attorney Joseph McKeehan, of Carlisle, after the latter said he had been fleeced of a sum of money, was sentenced to pay the costs, $100 fine and serve nine months in the Cumberland county jail by Judge E. M. Biddle, Jr., Tuesday at a session of miscellaneous court at Carlisle. "Penrose" pleaded guilty to the charge. Penrose, who is plainly a man of good breeding, has been very secretive since in jail, following his arrest. He worked Judge Gillan here for a cash donation and Attorney Walter K. Sharpe for money through a check, when he represented himself to be a nephew of Judge Biddle, who Tuesday sent him up for nine months. Asked by Judge Biddle whether he had anything to say, Penrose said: "I will not reveal my correct name. Penrose is not my name, and, for the sake of my mother, I will not give my real name."

To Increase Power Plant
CHAMBERSBURG.—Installation of an additional one thousand kilowatt generator at the electric light plant is in prospect as the result of increased demands by present large-scale consumers and the addition of a new consumer. The matter has been pushed to the fore by the announcement of the H. J. Heinz Co. that its plant, north of town, will require about 400 kilowatts. The Engineering Co. likely will need 200 additional kilowatts to its present supply, the Pennsylvania Lumber & Flooring Co., 175 kilowatts, the Chambersburg Lumber Co., 40, and the Nute, McGehee, Geary Co., 50 additional kilowatts. The capacity of the plant at the present is 2,000 kilowatts, this amount being furnished by two 500 kilowatt generators and one one-thousand generator.

Pastor Plays Modernists
HAGERSTOWN—Making his first public utterance on the subject of the doctrinal discussion between Modernists and Traditionalists which has shaken the church to its foundation, the Rt. Rev. John Gardner Murray, D. D., Bishop of Maryland, at St. John's Episcopal church before the Diocesan Convention and a large congregation of the laity, reaffirmed his faith in "my God and my Church" and his belief in the Bible "as the word of God to men." "I am not a scholar and I know it," Bishop Murray began, this statement presumably having been called forth by the assertion of one New York Modernist that the bishops as a whole are chosen not so much for their scholarly attributes as for their executive ability. "But I am unshaken," continued the Bishop, "by the profusion of confusions and conclusions. Mysteries and miracles give me no concern. I believe in the Bible as the word of God to men."

An Infallible Guard

Heimdall, according to Celtic mythology, was the perfect sentinel. His hearing was so acute that he could hear the wool growing on a sheep's back. His eyesight was so keen he could see everything that happened even though it occurred while he slept.

Advertising, if you use it properly, is an infallible sentinel for you. It guards you against fraud and inferiority. It protects you against making unwise and unsatisfactory purchases.

Merchants and manufacturers who advertise must give full value because they have good names to protect. The makers of well-known products and the stores that sell these products often value the names at millions of dollars. They cannot afford to jeopardize the worth of these names by selling any but good goods of full measure and fair price.

So, you can bank on this. Advertised goods must be as advertised. That is why it pays to deal with advertisers and to buy advertised products.

that it is decreasing. Wood chuck, fox and skunk damage has been reported in a number of instances. In the Adams-Franklin district, he said, one fruit grower has given up attempts to cultivate a 16-acre orchard after the orchard was repeatedly damaged.

Recommendation Made

Four recommendations were made by Deputy Secretary McKee to remedy the situation: First, have the State limit the number of game by having special or longer open seasons, or trapping and removing game; second, have the State aid in fencing farm land to protect private property; third, alter the law permitting the killing of game doing damage so that the game need not be detected in doing the damage, but be found on the land in the period the damage is done, with the change that the killing be done by game wardens to relieve the farmer of the onus of ill feeling caused by killing game out of season; fourth, if the State fails to remove the cause of damage, the State should pay for the damage and "not make it necessary for the individual to support the wild life for the State;" with safeguards in paying damage that only fair charges be made; the damage to be paid partly from hunters' license funds and partly from general funds of the State, as the State itself is interested in wild life as well as the sportsmen are.

Pennsylvania, Deputy Secretary McKee added, has gone farther in game protection than any other State he has had correspondence with on the subject, and he congratulated Secretary Gordon upon the showing.

5 Operations—15 years suffering with constipation—Kellogg's Bran restores health

Mr. Lancing's case is typical of thousands of others. He found permanent relief from constipation in Kellogg's Bran because it is ALL bran. Nothing but ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective. Read what he says:

Dear Sir:

I have been afflicted with constipation for the past 15 years, and during that time I have been in four different hospitals and submitted to five different operations that were the result of constipation. I was getting so bad that every meal I ate soured on my stomach. Two months ago I was advised to eat your Kellogg's Bran. I tried it, as I was trying everything I could hear of. From that day on I have never taken a physic. My stomach does not sour any more and my bowels move regularly morning and evening. Yours sincerely,

Frank Lancing,
1306 Jeffries Ave., Marion, Ind.

For permanent relief, eat Kellogg's Bran regularly. Two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. It is guaranteed to bring results, or your grocer will return your money.

You will like the delicious nut-like flavor of Kellogg's Bran—so different from ordinary bran, which are unpalatable. Eat Kellogg's Bran with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over other cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. Try it in the recipes given on the package.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumpled, is served by leading hotels and clubs in individual packages. Made in Battle Creek. Sold by all grocers.

nual fellowships awarded by the Academy to the winning students in a competition open to unmarried men and women who have passed with honor through leading technical schools. The Academy consists of three different schools—those of Fine Arts, Classical Studies, and Music.

Included in the Academy property is the Villa Aurelia, said to have been at one time the property of the Kings of Naples, and later the headquarters Garibaldi during the siege of Rome. In the foundations of the Academy building there is still preserved a part of the Wall of Aurelian, and in the basement of the main building can be seen remains of Trajan's baths. The accommodations for the Fellows in the Academy building resemble those of an American college fraternity house, the men having their own billiard rooms, tennis courts, lounging and reading rooms, and a Steinway grand piano, which was built for Franz Liszt. Last year there were thirty fellows enrolled, besides the faculty of American specialists and professors.

Garbage Incinerator Planned
HAGERSTOWN—One of the important questions which is now occupying the attention of the Mayor and Council is the matter of the collection and disposal of garbage in Hagerstown. For years this problem has been vexing and various methods have been pursued with little or no relief. Mayor Charles E. Bowman, who has been giving much consideration recently to the garbage problem, stated yesterday that he felt that the best way in which to dispose of garbage was by means of an incinerator. The Mayor will get in touch with concerns manufacturing incinerators and secure prices on equipment suitable for a city the size of Hagerstown. The question will likely be brought before the Council at an early meeting for consideration.

YOU CAN QUICKLY LIMBER UP SORE, STIFF, SWOLLEN JOINTS

Even Chronic Rheumatic Swellings in Knee, Elbow, Shoulder or Finger Joints Yield to the Mighty Powerful Influence of JOINT-EASE.

It's here, right in town and People's Drug Store and Stallsmith's Newsstand Drug Store, and every live druggist has it.

It's a low price remedy, to be sure, but that doesn't stop it from taking the kinks, lameness or torture out of your troubled joints.

Joint-Ease is the name, so-called because it is compounded solely for the purpose of relieving all joint ailments.

Just rub it on the tormented, lame joints and in just a few seconds it will penetrate to the bone and blessed comfort comes quickly.

It absorbs instantly and is so clean and stainless that you can rub it on often and get thereby, results much more quickly, when the joint is inflamed and the agony intense.

Being such a powerful counter irritant, it cannot help bringing speedy and helpful results in congestion, sore throat, chest colds, lumbago and neuralgia much quicker than almost any remedy you can buy.

But you must remember that it is for joint afflictions that it is mostly dispensed and its helpfulness will astonish you after all ordinary liniments and other treatments have failed.—adv.
